Dedication

By nomination and vote of the graduating members of the Class of 2005, this book is hereby dedicated to

Beta Theta Pi and Sigma Phi Epsilon

"Have you heard? It can't be true. Can it?" These were just a few of the frantic questions asked over the summer of 2003 as a scattered student body attempted to figure out the biggest rumor of recent memory. Only it wasn't a rumor, it was true. Sigma Phi Epsilon nationals revoked the charter of the Virginia Epsilon Chapter on July 1, 2003 citing alcohol abuse, low GPA, and low numbers as reasons for dropping the Washington and Lee chapter. The brothers firmly denied all the allegations, explaining that their grades and numbers placed them squarely in the middle of the pack for the university Greek community. The house also prided itself on being one of the most diverse houses on campus. After ditching the SPE ties, the brotherhood tried in vain to colonize a new fraternity, Alpha Delta Phi. In the end, many of the Sig Ep's found a home as social members of Phi Kappa Psi, a house who had previously been struggling with numbers. Unfortunately for the University Greek community, the SPE drama cast a national spotlight on our beloved community. The Administration promised not only a crackdown on hazing, but also to bring the local fraternities into line with their national fraternal guidelines. Pledgeship 2004 was marked with rumors, accusations, trials, and the death of the "Big Four." After a lengthy investigation of pledgeship hazing violations, Beta Theta Pi was suspended for one year from all campus activity. Months later, Beta Nationals revoked the chapter's charter for a full three years, time for all remaining members of Beta to graduate. The Beta brothers of the Class of 2006 are currently at work, in hopes of bringing Beta back during the 2005-2006 academic year. It remains unclear if they will have any success. However, one thing does hold true: when the Class of 2005 arrived as young freshmen in Fall 2001, fifteen fraternities greeted them. When the Class of 2005 graduates, they bid farewell to only thirteen, and a greek system very different from the one they originally knew.

The Speaking Tradition

When high school students visit W&L, the friendly hellos and smiles they encounter on the Hill are just an introduction to the community nature of Lexington. W&L's Speaking Tradition has long stood as a mark of positive distinction for the school. When then President Robert E. Lee mandated that all students and university community members treat each other with civility by saying hello, he started a tradition that would carry on through the 21st century. However, it seems that the Speaking Tradition has been dying a slow death over the last few years. As cell phones find their way onto our Colonnade, it seems fewer and fewer people are pausing to say hello, give a friendly wave, or even just a head nod of acknowledgement. It is the wish of this, the graduating Class of 2005, that the Speaking Tradition carry on for many years. So next time you pass a friend, an acquaintance, or even someone you've never seen before on the Hill, be sure to say hello. After all, it's tradition.

In Memory

Zachary Parmenter

Zachary A. Parmenter was killed in a car accident on Interstate 81 near Lexington on Friday evening, July 23, 2004. Parmenter, 20, was a member of Sigma Nu fraternity and the Generals Christian Fellowship. He was a graduate of University School in Hunting Valley, Ohio. Parmenter was working on campus during the summer as a researcher in the physics and engineering department, studying chaos synchronization in diode lasers with Assistant Professor David Sukow. "Zach had a quiet but keen sense of humor, and took pleasure in the small, daily absurdities that arose in the lab," said Sukow. "He thought clearly and spoke articulately, which gave him a real knack for explaining his insights to others. In only two months of lab work, he had already acquired the single most important capability a research student can have - a certain intellectual courage, the willingness to try things even when no one knew exactly what the outcome would be. He will be greatly missed."

Michael Gorman

Michael K. Gorman, director of the Lenfest Center for the Performing Arts, died Wednesday, March 9, 2005. He was 52. Gorman joined W&L in his current position in 1991, just months before the opening of the $10 million facility. "For the last 14 performance seasons, Michael has been central to the phenomenal success of our performing arts center," said Joseph Martinez, associate professor and chair of the W&L theater department. "This community owes a debt of gratitude for his vision and selfless dedication to bringing world-class performing artists to W&L and to our region. Michael helped to bring the world to our little mountain town." He is survived by his wife, Linda; a daughter, Elizabeth; a son, Christopher; his parents, Harry and Barbara Gorman; and siblings, Harry Gorman III, Barbara Piccirilli, Thomas Gorman and Richard Gorman.

President's Message

To the Class of 2005,

As I watch you prepare to leave Washington and Lee – at least for now – I am struck by the fact that you all preceded me here. While generally it is the institution that accepts and welcomes the new faces on campus, teaching them both the formal traditions and intangible ways of the University, it was in many ways you who played this role for me.

When I began my presidency here in 2002 you had completed that expansive journey of Freshman Year. At a school like Washington and Lee, where the traditions are palpably strong and the campus extraordinarily close, you already knew much of what it meant to be here, were already infused with the affection and the enthusiasm that our great school seems unflinchingly to breed. You had experienced life at Washington and Lee enough so that it was familiar to you, but still had so much to look forward to in your next three years.

It is the example of that poignant moment – simultaneously appreciating and anticipating your time at W&L - which you gave to me. It is important as president that I continue to both love what is and anticipate what will be here at Washington and Lee. I will not forget this lesson.

For you all, however, the time has come when you are looking forward to things far beyond this campus. You are anticipating careers and families; exotic adventures, travel, further study, homes of your own. Cliché though it is, it must be said: you have your entire lives before you.

With the education you have received here there is no opportunity closed to you. You are an extraordinary class of scholars, artist, athletes, writers, activists, performers, leaders – a comprehensive list could not be compiled so varied and talented are you. You think clearly, speak passionately, act energetically. You most certainly will change the world, each of you, in your own way.

It is my profound hope for you that you will always keep the same gift you brought to life for me – the glorious feeling of appreciating your present while happily anticipating your future. In this balance of contentment and inspiration is fulfillment.

The list of plans you look forward to surely includes things noble and great. I hope among those lofty plans you are also looking forward to returning to W&L, early and often. Your life has become a permanent part of this University and I hope that this University has become a permanent part of your life.

Pam joins me in sending our best wishes and our warmest congratulations.

Sincerely yours,

Thomas G. Burish

Legacy.

We've probably all been told that when we die, our lives will be represented by two dates and a dash. Our tombstones will simply say the day we were born and the day we died. A single dash will represent everything we've done in our lives. People are always telling us to make that dash count. However, when we die, we leave much more behind than just a dash. We leave a legacy. Hopefully, our legacies are something of which we can be proud. I often wonder, is Benedict Arnold proud of his legacy? Or Aaron Burr? Merriam-Webster defines a legacy as "something transmitted by or received from an ancestor or predecessor or from the past." This definition focuses only on legacies as inherited, but yet, we leave legacies of our own. We will forever be a part of the legacy that is Washington and Lee University. And Washington and Lee will always be a part of our legacy. We are building our legacies during every hour of every day. Our legacy are built by the actions we take, the decisions we make, and the people we meet along the way. Our legacy will include W&L.

No matter what we do with the rest of our lives, our legacies will forever include freshmen roommates, pledgeships, frat parties, and everything in between. Our W&L legacy will include streaking the colonnade, playing on a sports team, making facebook friends, and trips to Goshen. W&L will give us many aspects of our legacies. W&L will give our legacies a bit of honor, character, and a lot of integrity. The things that have been passed onto students for generations will be passed on to us, but it will be our responsibility to take those characteristics and do what we will with them. How we incorporate W&L into our legacies will be of our own choosing, but it is impossible to say that W&L won't be part of our legacies. We are forever bound to Washington and Lee; it is a part of who we are and who we become.

W&L will forever be part of us, yes, but we too will forever be part of Washington and Lee. The actions we take as students will impact fellow students for generations. Goals will be rewritten. Decisions will be made. As young adults, it's hard for us to think of our actions impacting generations, but yet we still need to be conscious of it. The University is in a time of change; the Strategic Plan outlines proposed changes, some good and some not so good; the Greek System is very different from the one we initially knew. Will we stand by and watch our University change before us? Will we be part of that change? Will we stop it, encourage it, or ignore it? And how does that change effect the legacy already existing at W&L, the legacy set by preceding student generations? We are the caretakers of their legacy, their tradition. Washington and Lee now includes our legacy. What will that legacy look like?

FRESHMAN MOVE-IN DAY

Welcome to the best four years of your life.

Enter.

On September 4, 2004, the Washington and Lee community welcomed 460 freshmen from 39 states, 12 foreign countries and the District of Columbia. Those 460 represent a pool from 3,649 applicants, 1,078 of whom were offered admission. The freshman notched an average SAT score of 1380 this year, forty points higher than their senior counterparts who only averaged a 1343 (though only 39 of the freshman were thier high school validictorians while 49 of the seniors garnered that honor). Families trekked across town or across the country to drop their students off in Lexington. With the help of the Freshman Orientation Committee and a number of other organizations the new students lugged their baggage and began their four years at W&L. Roommates met and friendships were kindled (hopefully). It didn't rain on move in day. Will tradition hold? Check back with us in four years and see if it rains on their graduatin day. Oh and to those poor freshman fathers: Yes, the Rugby team welcomes your daughters.

HOMECOMING

Cocktail Parties, Drive-by Truckers, and the Annual Football Game.

Nothing, not even rain, can put a damper on W&L student spirits. Especially when you give them an excuse to attend a football game in a sun dress or pastel polo. Keeping the Homecoming winning streak alive, the W&L football team pulled off a stunning victory against the Randolph-Macon Hornets at a score of 17-0. During Halftime, Kathikon officers Thomas Worthy and George Craft awarded Theta first prize in the banner competition and then crowned senior Katie Abplanalp Homecoming Queen. Congratulations to Katie! Athletic Director Mike Walsh inducted two alumni into the W&L

Athletic Hall of Fame. As always, the evening was filled with bands and cocktail parties. Seniors joined recent alumni in the Pavillion for the annual Alumni Association Wine Tasting. Not everyone had the opportunity to enjoy the festivities though; for everyone that suffered through the LSAT on homecoming weekend: we hope you did well!

HALLOWEEN

Ghosts, Waldo, Girl Scouts, the Jamaican Bobsled Team, and costumes of all sorts.

Boo.

Beta Theta Pi came back from the dead for an evening to join their fellow "Big Four" Fraternities, SAE, Phi Kap, and Phi Delt for their annual Halloween party. Hundreds of students trekked out to Windfall Hill for an evening complete with a great band and all the dancing one could want. Smoking Jim served up spicy hot barbeque all night long, dressed as, what else, a firefighter. Students came in all sorts of costumes. Some were funny, some were cute, and even some were a bit strange. Some dug through closets, others traveled to Goodwill, and others just bought costumes straight off the rack at Wal-Mart, but in the end, it was a great event that everyone at Washington and Lee could enjoy.

PARENTS' WEEKEND

A weekend of fun with cocktail parties, football game, and good music.

Family.

Students welcomed parents the first weekend of November for Washington and Lee's Parents Weekend. The town of Lexington was packed with parents and siblings as students showed their families the true spirit of Lexington. Parents had classes to attend, a football games to cheer for, and all the band parties one could wish for. Many parents and students, true W&L fans, packed the stadium to see the Generals win 24-20 in an unbelievable game against Emory and Henry that had everyone captivated until the last minutes. After the game, parents and students enjoyed many fraternity parties where parents could even be seen out later then their children, reliving their college days.

CHRISTMAS WEEKEND

Santa, Lights, Eggnog, Elves, and a whole bunch of Christmas Cheer

Santa.

Whether they were riding the tree at Hobes, drinking a glass of eggnog at SAE, going to Charlottesville with the Phi Kaps, reminiscing for the Beta food fight, or still recovering from Christmas in the Country, Washington and Lee students were seen throughout Lexington celebrating Christmas Weekend. The fraternity houses glowed, covered in multicolored lights that the guys nearly killed themselves trying to string. The ladies took this opportunity to dress in their holiday best while brothers donned Santa hats and suits in hopes of granting all the ladies their Christmas wishes. Cider and Champagne flowed as students gathered around fraternity dining rooms and fireplaces to celebrate, honoring Santa just a few weeks early. Although, it was not a white Christmas weekend, it was a weekend to remember and one last party of Fall Term.

FANCY DRESS BALL

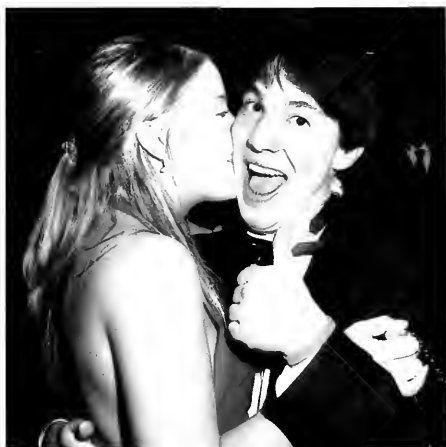

Shadow of the Sphinx

Tut.

Fancy Dress 2005 was held on Saturday, March 19th. This year the Fancy Dress Committee delivered a great event under the theme "In the Shadow of the Sphinx." After months of planning, the FD committee, headed by Catherine Turner and Amanda Jones, invited all members of the W&L community to join them in a trip down the Nile. The large gym greeted visitors complete with camels, pyramids, and even a huge Sphinx. The small gym was transformed into King Tut's tomb. Law students, professors, students, and staff mingled among the relics, enjoying a trip out on the town together. After all, everyone wanted to take one for Tut!

STUDY ABROAD

Students expand their horizons through travel.

Explore.

This year students travelled to a number of locations, from New Zealand to Scotland to Greece. Study Abroad is an opportunity that most W&L students take advantage of at some point during their four years here. It is often remembered as one of their fondest college memories. Who would want to miss the opportunity to wear a Scottish kilt, ride a cannon in New Zealand or climb a mountain with your buddy? Whether they went alone, with a friend or two, or with an entire W&L group, students always seem to have a great time. These are once in a lifetime experiences that give students a much needed break from the academic rigor of W&L.

SERVING

Mayflower, Waddell, Cleaning, Painting, and other assorted help around Lexington. Assist.

Each year, Washington and Lee students involve themselves in countless community service projects throughout Lexington and Rockbridge County. This year, Nabors Service League's Fall Service Challenge grew to include over 150 participants under the leadership of Noble Stafford '05 and Sonia Siu '07. Habitat for Humanity's Habitat Hotel raised thousands of dollars, contributing to the construction of a house here in Lexington.

Also, each of these organization's pre-orientation trips were extremely successful and started incoming freshmen with a good dose of service. The year ended with NSL's very successful Nabors Service Day, organized by Jess Hunsinger '07 and Greer Albergotti '07. Again this year, W&L students proved they are eager to help serve the community.

SPRING TERM

Six Weeks of Heaven

Sun.

Following tradition, Spring Term 2005 proved to be full of fun, excitement, and goodbyes. The graduating seniors went to their last of the legendary Spring Term events, where comments like "This is the last time I'll ever do ____!" filled conversations throughout the sunny six weeks. Collectively, W&L students found themselves all over the region enjoying the best part of the school year at annual events like Derby Days, the Foxfield Races, Sorority and Fraternity formals, Buffalo Creek, and Alumni Weekend. On the athletic fields, W&L women dominated. Women's Tennis made it to the NCAA championship, and Senior Lindsey Hagerman won W&L's first ever NCAA Singles Title. Women's Lacrosse won its first ever NCAA tournament game, and the Riding Team advanced two riders to nationals. The W&L community also saw the formal introduction of two new Greek organizations, Phi Beta Sigma fraternity and Delta Sigma Theta sorority, and a new sorority will be introduced in the fall. Despite being constantly busy, students took time during the term to relax, reflect, and enjoy six weeks of heaven.

Alumni Weekend

Class of 2005 attends their first alumni event.

Return.

On May 19th through the 21st, W&L welcomed back its alumni to Lexington. They were greeted with receptions and cocktail parties as they relived their W&L days, among other events coordinated by Kathekon and the Alumni Office. The class of 1955 celebrated their 50th anniversary and generously donated over $2 million to their alma mater. The Class of 2005 joined the official reunion classes at the Alumni Dinner on the lawn. Since it was the official last weekend of the school year, it was a great way to transition seniors into alumni.

Top Right: After realizing they only have one last weekend together, Erin Rathbone '05 and Quintina Conway '05 celebrate their approaching graduation.

Bottom Right: Hello to you, Smith Gardner '08. We hope you enjoyed rocking out on the dance floor.

Rehearsal

On June 1, 2005, Knight Professor of Journalism Ethics Louis Hodges and University President Thomas Burish addressed the Class of 2005 on the Front Lawn during the traditional Baccalaureate service. The service, historically religious but also serving as a practice for the next day's ceremony, was lead by Acting University Chaplain Burr Datz. As the sun shone, graduates processed across the historic campus to find their seats in front of Lee Chapel. With the fear of rain present in everyone's mind, Baccalaureate became even more important to the graduating class. As always, the graduates and their families joined faculty and staff on Stemmon's Plaza for a luncheon following the service.

Right Center: Shout out to the editors! Noble Stafford and Kelly Jo Larsen are definitely not in alphabetical order.

Near Right: Sam Belknap eves the tree with caution. You never know, who's out to get ya.

Far Right: Emily Larish seeks refuge from the rain under the umbrella of a friend. In an effort to keep graduates and guest dry, the University ran a rented school bus from Early-Fielding to Cameron Hall, but even that couldn't keep everyone completely dry.

GRADUATION

Rain forces ceremony to the Virginia Military Institute's Cameron Hall

Rain.

On June 2, Lexington awoke to the rain that had been forecasted for over two weeks and the worst fears of the Class of 2005 were realized: their graduation would take place at neighboring VMI. The largest and most diverse graduating class in school history, at 450 members with 11.3% ethnic minorities, the Class of 2005 crossed a stage indoors, at VMI's basketball stadium, Cameron Hall. Senior Marisa Meyer claimed class valedictorian, achieving a 4.036 GPA in Chemistry. Breaking with tradition, W&L invited alumnus Tom Wolfe '51 to speak at the ceremony. Wolfe, after critiquing American society's obsession with Paris Hilton and SUV's declared, "I have high hopes for this class." Senator John Warner '49 was awarded an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters at the ceremony.

Below: President Tom Burish wished the graduates, "the glorious feeling of appreciating your present while happily anticipating your future" during his short speech before handing the mic over to Tom Wolfe

Above: Kitt Murphy and Gavin Molinelli celebrate graduation at the Polehouse party after the graduation ceremony. The party, a success thanks to the hard work of Lindsay Knepper, was complete with a band, beer, and many tearful good-byes

Right Center: Charlotte Grumley, Kim Guist, Caitlin Hagan, Lindsay Hagerman, and Jeanne Hanowell process into the hall

"There are so many people that I would like to thank for making my four years at W&L special, and I know that I will not be able to mention them all, so I will do my best to include as many as possible. Most important to me are my friends. You all have been there for me every day over the course of the past four years. We have shared some amazing times together. From chilling in Gilliam, Infirmary Side, to all the nonsense that we were a part of as Betas, and it's still all true!, to the great times I have shared with so many on the lacrosse field. I am humbled and honored to have been a part of your lives and I thank you dearly for being a part of mine.

I cannot say enough about the Betas or the graduating class of the W&L men's Lacrosse team. You are all my brothers. We lived large while it all lasted, from jungle party to ODAC championships, I wouldn't trade a second of it for anything in this world or the next.

And finally I would like to thank my family for giving me the opportunity to attend this institution and for always being there for me through the good times and the bad. And a special thanks to all those who have made me feel like a part of their families over the years. I cherish all of my friendships and I love you all."

-Eric Koch

"Somewhere, somehow, crazy Alex might still pack belgian waffles, ice cream cones, and 2-liters of Mr. Pibb into her backpack, and that's cool with me. She played a major role in my freshman year on the fourth floor of Graham-Lees, and her time at W & L affected our lives so much that her story is now a legend. That's the best thing about this senior class--for the most part, each one of us has our own "belgian waffle" stuffed into our back pockets (its social acceptability notwithstanding). For me, the little quirky memories are more significant than the long, sleepless nights in Leyburn and the monotonous drunken parties that all blend together. I think we're legendary, and I hope the weird stories keep coming."

-Cristin Nunez

"Although I enjoyed the challenging courses, small classes and amazing professors, my best memories of college are not academic. Like the majority of 2005 graduates, what I will remember most about Washington and Lee is the people I met. From frat parties to tailgate to bid day to spring breaks to Mardi Gras to all the formals and date functions, it is the friends I made here that I will miss the most when I leave. Even though everything seems to be changing, our memories of the fun times are one thing that won't change."

-Jill Watly

"4 years and $100,000 has equated to very little in terms of usable knowledge. Most of the time, classes were eerily reminiscent of the vegetables that were on the side of my plate when I was a kid. Whether or not I wanted to, I knew I had to take care of them in order to get to the good stuff. And there was plenty of good stuff. Sports, publications, radio, organizations and the occasional party. The things I learned cramming for tests at 4 AM were usually forgotten by 4 PM. Along the way, there were hundreds of people I never met and scores more I wish I hadn't. But as I reflect on my career here, looking back on all of my experiences and the few friends I made, I can't help but think that those four years of tuition were somehow a bargain."

-XaK Bausch

"Throughout my time at Washington and Lee, I was a perpetual man in motion. And yet, those times I shall remember most fondly are those where I did very little. The three hour conversations at D-Hall when you meant to stay for one. Lamenting the fortunate weather in the awkward time before practice. Making fun of the terrible movie you're watching with friends. Grilling burgers as an excuse to drink outside. For the next few years, time will be money. For the past few, wasted time was worth so much more."

-Chris Walker

tant to be a part of the change but don't get caught up 'cause you'll miss a lot and won't even notice till its too late. And the bottom line is that change is coming anyway whether you work at it or not. The administration caught hell for a lot of the decisions they made and while some of their decisions haven't been the wisest I give them props for having a vision for W&L and following through. Hopefully the rest of us will find that they made more good decisions than bad. W&L is a lot more diverse than it appears to be at first glance at least it is when people stop trying to front. They say you don't know where you're going unless you know where you came from and that if you don't stand for something you'll fall for anything. I think that the strong sense of tradition that is at the root of W&L is imperative to the continuing success of our school and I beg everyone who ever passed through its halls to remember that but at the same time lets not get stuck in the past and become too dated. Besides the important traditions have lasted for more than 100 years so I don't think they're really going anywhere. W&L is certainly a place like no other and its not always easy and its not always pretty but it is absolutely worth it. See ya on the Board"

"Looking back on these past four years, I am reminded of Confucius saying, "Do what you love and you will never work a day in your life." Well, we've worked a lot, but hopefully we come away loving it all - I know have. When we walk down that line at graduation, that is what I am taking with me the community that we have here. It will never leave me - this collection of people that are striving to work to live and not live to work. I'll always remember the friends who enjoyed the challenge of studies, making a wall of graphs that almost turned into a piece of art by the end. The random road trips to D.C., spending entire days in the museums, singing in the streets and learning all those "policies." hah. Then we have Mardi Gras over Feb Break Junior year, when I think half this school was on Bourbon Street at any given moment! Even those classes that pushed me to make order out of chaos or find the meaning of existence- isn't that what it's all about! At the same time, it was fun to throw our hands up and just enjoy it - like those parties that let us all dance to the music regardless of whether you were in a crowded room of a hundred people sardined together. Too many things to list really: Wednesday morning coffee with the live music and Burr Datz, reading on the colonnade, tubing at Goshen, frat parties with bands and DJ's, or those Sunday mornings of cinnamon pancakes in Gaines suites. I'll remember them all, and I thank you all for giving them to me. You are my blessings."

-Katie Abplanalp

"Graham-Lees 264...domination...Pledgship...the greatest eight weeks...Sweaty basements listening to never-will be bands...one-half fun, one-half absurd...Mint juleps on the veranda...classy...Road trips with Muff & Co...consider beware...Running around as a confederate soldier in the 21st century...ridiculous...My memories of college won't be the Speaking Tradition, the Honor System or any of the other great traditions that give W&L its stamp of uniqueness. It's about the people that I've been with for all the times--many of which were a blur--over the last four years. GTP Alphas '05"

-Beau Leiter

"Of all the amazing people I've met at Washington and Lee over the past four years, there are fourteen special women that stick out in my mind the most. Playing volleyball at W&L has been the single most important thing for me here because of my teammates. These are the women that make me laugh and smile and cry. Few things could make someone want to miss Homecoming, Parent's Weekend, Twin Stars, Christmas Weekend, and everything in between. But the weekend road trips, movies on the bus rides, scary hotels, and Wendy's (our favorite) have been the best part of my college experience. Never have I had more fun than with these girls (think Legit, Crack House, and Bob Barker). The moments with this team are the ones that I will never forget, and I could not be prouder to be associated with these women. Thanks to my favorite ODAC Champs: I love you, girls!"

-Emily Wolfing

"TO SPORTS: Unleash the Furry. Air Force Ones. ODAC Championships. Plowing the track. Bootleg busses (don't worry, we've still got Speasie). Turn and burn, touch the stadium bleachers, and other Cerino-isms. Lax tats. The Jan bubble. Offense-Defense Keg-off. Ira Cooper. "The magic stick" and "get low." Turf monster. Gimp squad 4 life. Wendy's tubing trip. The Fireman outfit. And, of course, UTAH! Thank you for the experiences I couldn't have gotten anywhere else. I can't even articulate how much all of my coaches, teammates, and trainers have done for me in 8 seasons. You are some of the most amazing people I know: Heather, Mary, Holly, Marlene and Barry, you are my heroes.

TO THETA: 2 hour lunches. Canned laughter. Pledge class activities. Keg-off domination. Hating rush. The Chain song. What more can I say? You guys were always there for me in good times and bad--you're the best friends a girl could have. I can't begin to imagine W&L without you. Always remember to keep the kite in sight!

TO FAMILY: Thank you so much for giving me this experience and supporting me every step of the way. I am forever indebted.

TO THE C-SCHOOL: At least the chair races were fun..."

-Kitt Murphy

"Our class entered Washington and Lee as the biggest ever and we have certainly left our mark on the University. One thing I have been thrilled to see over the past four years is the progress women have made on campus. When we were freshman, there was one woman on the Executive Committee. Now, the EC has members that more closely represent the true diversity of our school. The class of 2005 has taken a leading role in this process. In my time at W&L, I have had the opportunity to work with so many outstanding peers. Many of them don't agree with my personal vision for change at W&L, but the fact that they are willing to engage in dialogue with me demonstrates the open-mindedness and civility that Washington and Lee instills in its students. Despite the constant worry over tradition and controversies like the alcohol policy, I feel very confident about what tomorrow has in store for our beloved college. I believe that our class has been instrumental in ensuring that student governance remains the foundation for our future."

-Susan Somers

"W&L is one of those places where you have to see it to believe it. Even after nearly four years my friends at other schools cannot believe that I went to a school with only 80 black students in a town that has Wal-Mart and a three screen theater for entertainment and actually managed to survive. The funny thing is that with less than six months before graduation I've come to realize that I did more than just survive I've grown, I've met a world of incredible people who have changed my life forever and most of all I can honestly say that I had a lot of fun. Surprisingly the only regret that I have is not making more out of my time here. Change is good and its important to be a part of the change but don't get caught up 'cause you'll miss a lot and won't even notice till its too late. And the bottom line is that change is coming anyway whether you work at it or not. The administration caught hell for a lot of the decisions they made and while some of their decisions haven't been the wisest I give them props for having a vision for W&L and following through. Hopefully the rest of us will find that they made more good decisions than bad. W&L is a lot more diverse than it appears to be at first glance at least it is when people stop trying to front. W&L is certainly a place like no other and its not always easy and its not always pretty but it is absolutely worth it. See ya on the Board"

-Kaela Harmon

"Nothing too serious... I understood your intelligence, your dignity, your creativity and your passion. I understood your love for tradition and your pursuit of honor. I tried to understand you and your perception of reality and in some cases I succeeded. However, I never did understand your strong appetite for that spirited liquid or why you seemed unable to enjoy a party without the help of those spirits.

Still, I must say:

Thank you for your rolling hills and my four hundred meter oval, for intellectual conversations bordering on the edge of stupidity that echoed in the walls of your locker rooms, for those counter-intuitive rules (last one does it-self) and your extreme fashion of a suit worn so elegantly with flip flops, or those mini-skirts that display your trembling legs in the cold sun light of winter. Maybe I will see you tomorrow as we gather together to contemplate white columns and bell chimes or perhaps to roll down the front lawn. Perhaps we can hold a fashion show for birthday suits on the colonnade on one of those fine spring afternoons!!

And for YOU... let rendezvous at the bleachers and watch the masked Cadavers flee their avid pursuers and...

Oh what the heck!! Vuelva usted mañana! Pura vida Mae!!"

- Norman Senior

"On our first night in Lexington, my roommate and I went to dinner with our families at the Wilson Walker House, where we saw Robert Duvall dining upstairs with his dialect coaches during the filming of Gods and Generals. It is so fitting that the first of my W&L memories is of the man who acted in Newsies and Lonesome Dove, the man who played both Boo Radley AND Roger Chillingworth, learning to speak like General Robert E. Lee. This man has followed me through my four years here, appearing as Harry Hogge when I need to get my act together and as Tom Hagen when I need advice. Since that fateful night with Bob four years ago, my life has had all the key elements of a hit movie: an amazing cast of characters (including ridiculous cameos by the Rev. Al Sharpton and Sir Elton John), a beautiful set, countless fabulous dance sequences, a gratuitous costume montage, and one hell of a storyline—not to mention franchise potential..."

-Susanna Brailsford

"There have been so many memorable moments during my time at Washington and Lee that it has been incredibly difficult for me to figure out what to write about. From the miserable pre-orientation trip to chasing down the cadavers in the middle of the night and all the date functions and boring classes in between, it has been quite an experience to be a student at this incredible school. One of my fondest college memories though, did not occur in Lexington, but rather on an interesting trip to Miami. As one of the co-founders of the Gay Straight Alliance, we thought it would be a good idea to attend a conference that promoted ways to implement change in your community, and wouldn't you know, we found a conference in Miami, Florida. The Creating Change Conference for 2003 was held in the Radisson Hotel on the beach in Miami. While the conference was very enlightening and informative, the most memorable aspects of that trip came after the evening sessions were over and we three college juniors were left loose on the town. I took it upon myself to be the social director for our little group (Kelly Jo Larsen, Steve Martinenza, and myself) and decided it was my mission to find a drag show, so I inquired to our delightful bellhop and he sent us on our way to Madame's. We found ourselves at a cabaret restaurant where the waitresses did double duty, serving us food and performing acts to songs by such legends as Reba McEntire and Gloria Gaynor. Our waitresses took a liking to a member of our party, I'm sure you can guess which one, and invited us to another little club after they got off work. Thus, we found ourselves at 'Cupid's: A Club Like No Other' with Nicolette and Frannie. I must stop here on my trip down memory lane, though, because 'what happens in Miami, stays in Miami.'"

"True Confessions from a Twentysomething Gossip Queen

Wow. I can't believe I'm a senior. There are some things I will never forget about this school, for better or worse. It seems that even though we're a small campus, we've definitely had our fair share of drama. Does everyone remember Website Girl? I don't even know her real name, I just know her as Website Girl. And there was that girl who everyone called the Freshman Snackcake because everyone got a piece. Everyone was talking about that for awhile. And of course, there was the Student Body Hearing that never took place that everyone was getting all worked up about. There was that administrator (I think he was the Communications Director, but I'm not sure) that got arrested for trying to solicit an underage boy in a porn shop parking lot. That was kinda crazy. Then there was the huge drama that ensued when SPÉ got kicked off campus, then the guys changed their name to ADP and tried to come back—like no one would notice. Everyone had their own opinion on what the IFC should do. And of course, this year was no different. More W&L students were introduced to the exciting world of gay pornography due to former administrator Todd Tate (a.k.a. Noah) than most would probably care to admit. There are other stories, juicier and more titillating than these, but they're still secrets (not my secrets, but secrets none the less). And I'm sure everyone will hear them soon enough. Until then, keep in mind that gossip was meant to be spread, so don't hold back."

-Allen Barry

"The events of September 11, 2001 defined my four years at W&L. This tragedy occurred on the very first Tuesday of our freshman year. Although my father survived the attacks and escaped the north tower (1 WTC) of the World Trade Center physically unharmed, my family was changed forever. We were reminded to listen more deeply, say I love you more often, and live more passionately. I have attempted to follow these principles at Washington and Lee. With the guidance and assurance of my friends, professors, mentors, and coaches, I have been reminded that life is about the journey not the destination. I will always be grateful to these people, for they have changed me and taught me new lessons on love, friendship, and grace."

-Kyle Meehan

"When considering what to write in my senior memoir, the obvious topics came to mind: Kappa Delta (AOT, bitches), Mock Con (DC: too good for statehood), the C-School (it is fruitless to ignore my true dorky-ness anymore), College Republicans (the 3 musketeers), and music (Sus and Anna, so many "wow" moments). After a bit of contemplation, I have come to the conclusion that there is no singular event or activity that will suffice in defining my experience as a W&L student. It is the W&L students, themselves, who have defined that experience. Of course my more obvious friendships with roommates (Pollo 5 4eva – there are no words for how grateful I am for y'all), my pledge class and sorority (most amazing support system EVER!), and the fearless GOP trio that has been known to tear around the Commons at all hours of the night mean so much. But to those who I have had class with, randomly chatted to at a frat party, worked with on Mock Con, or just walked by me on the hill and said smiled saying "Hello," you are so much of what has made Washington and Lee "Dubyanell" for me. Thank you, and I wish you all the best."

-Celia Landgren

"10 Things I would have missed out on if I didn't come to W&L..."

- 1) Great bridesmaids.
- 2) Learning how to swim, or better yet float.
- 3) How when it snows heavily, we have to "use our best judgment".
- 4) Jack Wiegus tests
- 5) Those wonderful Friday nights when my friends and I would be at home having singing and dancing contests in front of the mirror. Those were the days...wassap, wassap, wassap wassap wassap...hahahahahah.
- 6) Pi Phi boys...oh yea...
- 7) The Palms...oh wait a minute, I never did go to the Palms...nevermind.
- 8) Scheduling my finals.
- 9) Feb Break
- 10) Ted Archer and Cuttie Franks."

-Zahra Parker

"Washington and Lee is steeped in tradition and history and we ought-fivers are now a part of it. We can only hope that the mark we left on it is as indelible as the one it has left on us. As we leave it behind, let's not forget why Washington and Lee means so much. It will never be the rankings. It will never be the small classes. It will never be, dare I say, the Commons. It will, instead, be the people who have come into our lives as a result of all of us being here at this time and in this place. Thanks to every one of you."

-Jeb Brooks

picture of our time here is something like a roller coaster ride. We've had our ups and downs, and perhaps been thrown for a loop once in a while, but what matters is that we appreciate the trip. I'm pretty sure no senior who graduates from this school can claim some kind of mythical perfection. We've all failed a test, lost a big game, struck out with some co-eds, or left a friend behind. But in not achieving that perfect experience at all junctures, we've learned to lose as well as to win. In experiencing the sour along with the sweet, we appreciate the "little things in life" that get us through those times that trouble us. This school, although always full of twists and turns, also brims with these "little things"—whether they are friends' comforts, a professor who goes the extra mile, or an activity that takes our minds away from other issues. "The Boss" was right in saying that it is enough in life to keep on keepin' on when times are low, and I will always remember W&L as a place where the people and the atmosphere made that seem easy."

-Dan Fassio

"Washington and Lee's institutional values of wisdom, work ethic, and honor will always encourage me to continue developing my character in pursuit of our school's tradition of excellence. Despite the considerable knowledge I've acquired in Payne Hall, I'm quite certain that I have learned my most influential lessons from my classmates: the men and women who make the W&L experience unique from any other university. I cannot adequately express my gratitude for the friendships we've cultivated, and I look forward to hearing about everyone's success. From first floor Graham-Lees to Jacob's Ladder and Plinko, Washington and Lee will always hold a special place in my heart. I wish us all the best of luck. I am, sincerely yours."

-Patrick Hastings

"Now look back. There's a couple of ways to do this – this post-game celebration-in-words – as many angles to take as readers because everyone has their angle on graduation, if you plan on it, and me, if we've met, and I did mean to meet you all. Everyone thinks they know what it's going to be like to leave somewhere safe like college, thrilling, swashbuckling, remiss and alone, maybe all at once. Well, who's ever surprised when reality didn't match their approximation? I'm writing months before graduation, millions of minutes before emotions start to well up and I realize I had no idea I felt so strongly about colonial Virginia architecture and my teachers. My friends, they mean the most, they know how I've been bawled out, balled up, held up, held down, hung up, bulldozed, blackjacked, walked on, cheated, and squeezed ... what the hell is next? And I know that they, like me, have worked like hell, worked others like hell, have got drunk and got others drunk, and at times felt like they lost all they had. Yea, everyone's down and dark at times, but when I look at them, man and woman, all grows up, from any angle, I see the best of what they dream themselves to be. This was never about me, anyway, these halls full of friends and dreams. There's work to do and curiosity will get that done as good as anything. Now look out."

Top: Andres Amerikaner leads the group sing along...

Above Bottom: Dude! Send us help! It's Christmas in Costa Rica and there's no snow! We demand a white christmas. Well.... on second thought, maybe not.

It's an argument! Above, Pat Collins and Elizabeth Falco duke it out about who's lax season will be more dominant while, below, Pearson Pendergrass and Romney Willson argue about who gets to sleep on the right side of the bed.

Below Right: Is it safe to grill inside? Warren Hunter thinks so, as long as he has the help of his fraternity brothers, Clark Finney '06 and Ryan Light '06.

Above: Eric Bokinsky takes his date for a spin on the floor as Fancy Dress. Wait minute... he's security. If he was dancing, who was keeping us safe? Below: Matt Kaufman. We don't really want to know what is in either of his hands. With the Batcave boys, you don't ask and they don't tell.

Left: We're sorry, Thomas Worthy can't talk to us right now. He's too busy being permanently attached to his cell phone. After all, he's kind of a big deal. People know him.

Right: Eleanor Williams demonstrates the construction errors at Lodell. Don't get stuck! Courtney Berry doesn't want to call the fire department.

Left: That is absolutely disgusting: chugging soy sauce can not be tasty. But would we expect anything less from Eric Bokinsky? He'll never shy away from a challenge, no matter how disgusting.

Right: Amanda Leuders does her best impression of Peter Rabbit at the Palms on her 21st birthday. Little bunny Foo Foo, hopping through the forest...

Below: Cameron Lord forgot his sunglasses as home. He seems rather distraught about it.

Above: AJ Mannett and Tina Shen enjoy one of the many fraternity formal events at Pika. It could have been Homecoming... or Christmas weekend... or a semiformal... or...

Below: No Leah, up here! Greer Johnson attempts to help Lean Greenberg wave to her adoring fans.

Center Right: Hugh Yeomans shows off his modeling talent. However, he does need to learn to straighten his tie.

Above: Chad Lewis and Lynn Symansky. Who ever said two was a bad thing?

Above: Chris Carlson demonstrates his toughness. He can climb to the top of a bale of hay, hold two beers, and still make a funny face: now that's talent.

Above: Norman Senior was so enthralled by his homework that it put him straight to sleep.

Top: Though Rush is usually painful, Elizabeth King and Christina Kolock have fun at Chi O.

Bottom: Is that two Gavin Molinelli's? No, just one and one Matt Marino dressed as Gavin.

Below Top: Caitlin Hagan and Chad Nichols

Above: Kathleen Stoeckle, Suzie LaFleur, Alicia Martin, Robyn Kunkel, Tina Su, Page Thomas, and Meg Sherwood.

Below: McLean McGregor and Eric Bokinsky jam to the German band.

Below Top: Kara Lehmen and McQueen Calvert enjoy a night out

Ellie Hindsley and Marriott Horton before Pink to Drink.

Sarah Jafri giving Vicky Stanham some lovin' at the Palms

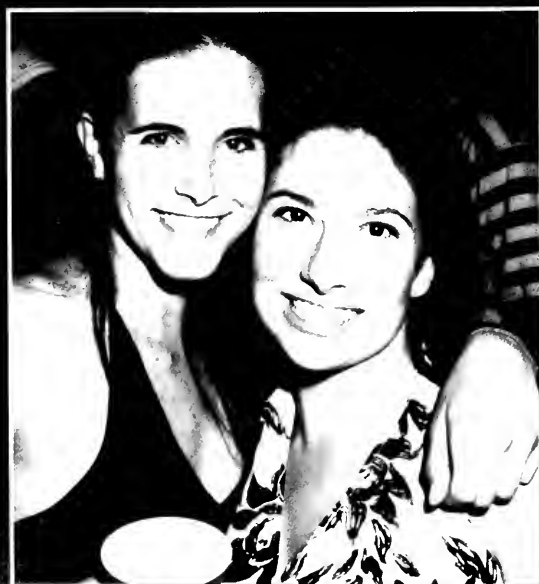

Left: After imbibing a few adult beverages, Steve Martinenza and Allen Barry decide to hit the dance floor.

Right: Having spent several years mastering her skills, Kitt Murphy knows exactly how to put Eric Koch in his place. Does he listen though?

Above: Charlie Clarke '07 tries to focus on the obnoxious arrow pointing directly at his head while Pat Casey attempts to distract him. That or they're just trying to look cool. That too.

Right: Unbeknownst to most, Rory Dowling likes to be flashy, as his green cumberbund shows.

Above: The ladies of Polehouse 2: Jeane Hanewell, Lindsey Kneippner, Emily Ballengee, Lora Farris, Cara Cronin, and Ashley Trice.

Above: McLean McGregor puts the moves on the Sphinx.

Above: Ben Morris tries to convince Kelley Zagol and Quintina Conway that he really is Coach Waldron but the ladies weren't fooled.

Left: Lis Tessier takes a photo of her tongue to help her decide whether or not to invest in an ever stylish tongue ring.

Above: Eric Koch and Max Sandler '08 model their six packs (and a keg) in the training room before lacrosse practice.

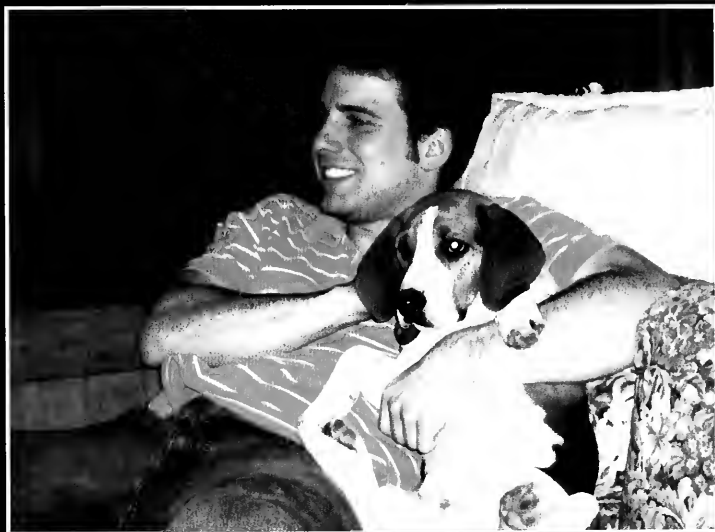

Above: Ryan "Flav" Valeri and Mike Baracco share a special moment; aren't you supposed to bite the limes not sniff them?

In Nassau, Thomas Worthy, Tripp Onnen, and Taylor Marshall advise the Piano Man as to what songs he should play.

"There's a lot of hair under that tux." Or so his fraternity brothers tell us. We didn't want to know.

Above: Kyle Olcott snuggles with the new pup in town: Champ's competition?
Top Left: Christmas Weekend tree riding at Hebes, an annual tradition.

Lenfest Center

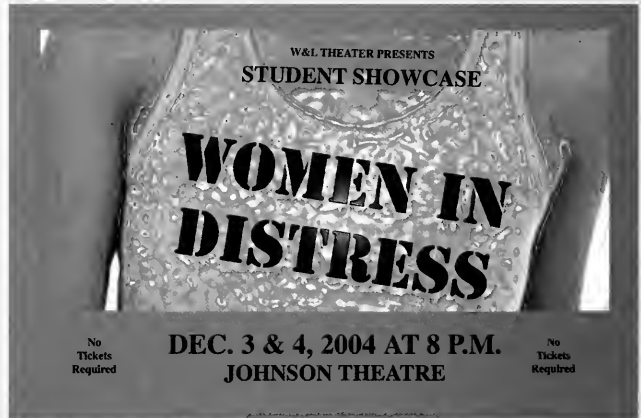

Open Stage

This year the Lenfest Center held its first ever Open Stage on Jan. 21. Open Stage 2005 follows closely on the successful heels of the theater's December Student Showcase 2005 (showcasing freshman and sophomore students) in which nine women were featured live through song, dance and drama in 11 acts. Open Stage 2005 gives all students an opportunity to showcase their talents on stage to a live audience.

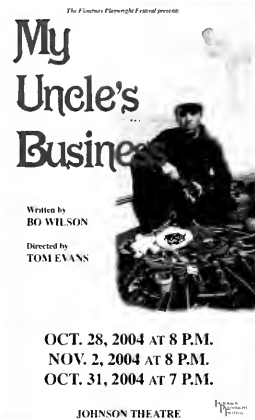

Student Showcase

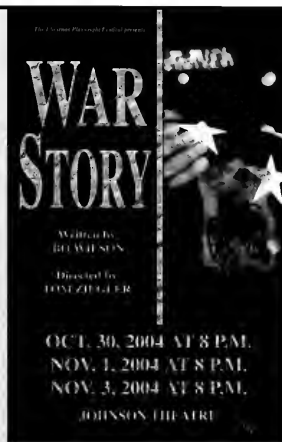

The Student Showcase, titled "Women in Distress", featured freshman and sophomore students. It was held Dec. 3rd and 4th.

My Uncle's Business

My Uncle's Business, by Bo Wilson, was performed Oct. 28th and 31st and Nov. 2nd as part of the Flournoy Playwright Festival. It was directed by Tom Evans.

War Story

War Story, by Bo Wilson, was performed Oct. 30th and Nov. 1st and 3rd as part of the Flournoy Playwright Festival. It was directed by Tom Ziegler.

Football

Senior John Barnwell demonstrates his amazing ability to hold onto the football while doing one-armed push-ups

After graduating 15 seniors last spring, Head Football Coach Frank Miriello didn't know what to expect of his 2004 season.

He didn't expect the Generals to finish the campaign with a 6-4 overall record, 4-2 in the ODAC. This year the generals notched their first winning season since 1995, their first 6 win season in 19 years. They even found themselves within striking distance to the ODAC Championship before losing to Bridgewater. The squad broke several records along the way, finishing third in the nation in rushing defense. The Generals posted a school-record and ODAC-leading 43 sacks, while junior quarterback Greg Tweardy (Bethel Park, Pa.) set records for season completions and attempts.

Numerous players earned first team All-ODAC honors, including Ward, Startzman, Murray, Wilson, and Swann, while Miriello was named the Coach of the Year for the third time in his career.

Senior DT, Chris Caramore "Protects this house"

"Our team this year came in with no expectations, and was basically just a bunch of idiots who liked to run around and hit people. In the end, we shocked the ODAC, and set up our program for some great seasons to come. No actual puppies were hurt in the process..."

Soccer Season Highlights

Defense was the trademark of the 2004 Washington and Lee women's soccer team. The Generals posted 10 shutouts, including a school-record tying five in a row, held 17 of their 19 opponents to two goals or less, and limited the opposition to just 0.71 goals per game.

The W&L defense was clearly evident during the 2004 ODAC Tournament. The third-seeded Generals were gunning for their third straight ODAC Championship but came up one win short. W&L knocked off sixth-seeded Roanoke, 1-0, in the ODAC Tournament quarterfinals and shutout second-seeded Virginia Wesleyan, 1-0, in the ODAC Tournament semifinals before falling 1-0 to top-seeded Lynchburg in the ODAC Championship game.

W&L finished the season with a 12-4-3 overall record and an 8-2-1 mark in the ODAC. It also placed six players on the All-ODAC Team, including five on the All-ODAC First Team, which was the most of any team in the conference.

Senior defender Kelley Zagol (Berwyn, Pa.), junior defender Heather Rogers (Atlanta, Ga.), junior midfielder Gina VonSternberg (Houston, Texas), sophomore forward Anne Wiltshire (Richmond, Va.), and sophomore midfielder Maggie Megeer (Cold Spring Harbor, N.Y.) were all named to the first team, while freshman forward Shana Oltmans (Albuquerque, N.M.) earned honorable mention honors.

Wiltshire finished with 35 points on 15 goals and five assists. After just two seasons, she is already sixth all-time in school history in goals (28) and points (68), while her 12 career assists are tied for ninth all-time.

Zagol completed her senior season with career highs in points (14), goals (6), and assists (2) to finish fourth on the team in scoring.

Gut-wrenching would be an accurate description of the 2004 Washington and Lee men's soccer season as the Generals were involved in five overtime games, four of which went double-overtime. W&L finished the season with a 6-7-3 record and a 3-3-3 mark in the ODAC to earn the number six seed in the ODAC Tournament. However, it couldn't duplicate last season's run to the ODAC Championship Game after falling to third-seeded Guilford, 3-0, in the ODAC Tournament quarterfinals.

W&L opened the season with top-notch competition in Salisbury and Greensboro. The Generals nearly defeated Salisbury, falling 2-1 in overtime. The heartbreaking loss was compounded by a 5-0 loss to the Pride.

Seniors Brian Pirkle (Lexington, Va.) and Peter Miller (Towson, Md.) both earned First Team All-ODAC honors, while senior Justin Mygatt (Marietta, Ga.) was an honorable mention selection.

Pirkle finished his career ranked in the Top 10 all-time in several different categories. He is tied for fifth in games played (69), tied for sixth in game-winning goals (5), tied for seventh in assists (14), tied for ninth in goals (23), and is ninth in points (60).

Both Teams Capture ODAC Title

The 2004 Washington and Lee women's cross country season was simply extraordinary. The Generals featured a young, but talented lineup which came together at the right time and produced the school's first ODAC title since the 2000 season.

The pieces fell into place from the opening meet with a second place finish in the W&L Invitational. The following week, the Generals finished fifth at the NYU Invitational.

Following a sixth place finish in the Gettysburg Invitational, W&L was ready to claim the ODAC title in the championship meet. The Generals rolled the field, placing six runners in the Top 11.

The Washington and Lee men's cross country team also raised the ODAC Championship banner in the 2004 season. The Generals returned a solid group of runners from last season and blended them perfectly with a talented group of freshmen to produce the program's first league championship since the 1997 season.

The season-opening W&L Invitational proved that the Generals had what it takes as they finished tied with Roanoke atop the leaderboard.

After the W&L Invitational, the generals then set their sights on, and claimed, the Virginia Division III Championship. The Generals then finished fourth at the Gettysburg Invitational and soon claimed the ODAC title, claiming four of the Top 10 spots.

"Our success this year is a testament to how hard we work everyday. I don't think people realize the amount of work necessary to be a championship XC team. 70 mile weeks and two-a-day practices are the norm. For us, running is not just a sport, it's our passion and a way of life."

Field Hockey

The 2004 Washington and Lee field hockey team must have had the feeling of déjà vu. For the third consecutive year, the Generals finished with a 6-3 ODAC record and advanced to the ODAC Tournament Semifinals.

The season began with a four-game losing streak, leaving the Generals wondering if they had what it takes to compete with the nation's elite. However, those feelings changed with a four-game winning streak that featured the program's first-ever win over Eastern Mennonite.

W&L carried the momentum over from the historic win and won their next three games by a combined score of 15-1, including two shutouts. They defeated Bridgewater, 3-0, Mary Washington, 2-1, and Hollins, 10-0. W&L tied a school record with nine goals in the first half in the 10-0 victory over Hollins.

At 4-4 overall and 3-1 in the ODAC, the Generals were now feeling confident, but those feelings would waver with a pair of losses to Roanoke (3-2) and Juniata (2-0).

The up-and-down season would then continue as a high was the result of another winning streak, this time three games. W&L knocked off Sweet Briar, 3-0, points (6) in a game while senior midfielder Kitt Murphy (New York, N.Y.) equaled the school mark for assists (3) in a game.

Four days later, W&L hosted sixth-seeded Bridgewater in an ODAC Tournament quarterfinal game and came away with the 4-2 win. However, the season would end with a 2-0 loss to second-seeded Virginia Wesleyan in the ODAC semifinals for a 9-9 mark.

Sophomore defender Rebecca Hatchett (Newport News, Va.) and junior midfielder S.B. Northen (Richmond, Va.) earned First Team All-ODAC accolades, while Murphy earned a spot on the second team. Beall earned honorable mention laurels after finishing the season with team-high totals in points (31), goals (12) and assists (7), and game-winning goals (3). Murphy finished with nine goals and four assists for 22 points, and completed her career ranked second all-time in assists (15), and third in goals (19) and points (53).

Seniors

"2004 was another rewarding and successful field hockey season. The four seniors were instrumental in guiding and leading the hockey program in the right direction. I am grateful for all that they contributed and I will miss their skill, leadership, enthusiasm, humor, and especially their friendship."

-Coach Wendy Orrison

squeaked by Randolph-Macon, 1-0, and beat Sewanee, 4-0.

Continuing the theme, the Generals again stumbled by dropping two of the next three games to fall to 7-8 overall. However, again W&L regrouped to tie three school records in an 8-0 win over Randolph-Macon Woman's College in the regular season finale. In the victory, Jane Beall (Richmond, V.A.) tied the school record for goals (3) and

In 2004, the Generals claimed their fourth straight ODAC Championship, advanced to the NCAA Tournament Second Round for the fourth straight year, and won more than 20 matches for the seventh consecutive season. All of these facts are impressive, but also consider the following: W&L improved its ODAC winning streak to 51 straight matches dating back to the 2000 season. The seniors on this year's team, outside hitter Emily Wolfing (Mt. Airy, Md.) and Jennifer Lux (Virginia Beach, Va.), went their entire career without losing an ODAC match. In 2004, the Generals lost but one game to an ODAC opponent, out-scoring them 33-1 in their 14 regular season and tournament matches.

W&L went 2-2 in its season opening tournament. Following four wins and a pair of losses to ranked opponents (Emory and Elmhurst), the Generals went on a school-record winning streak which saw them take each of the next 19 matches to improve to 24-4 overall.

The Generals then dropped three straight to a tough field at the Centre Tournament, before sweeping through the ODAC Tournament for W&L's seventh tournament title in the last eight years.

The NCAA's began with a 3-0 win over an always tough

Maryville squad, but ended with another loss to a Top 10 Emory University team.

Many accolades were realized, including a stellar 28-8 overall record. And the record books, they have been re-written forever.

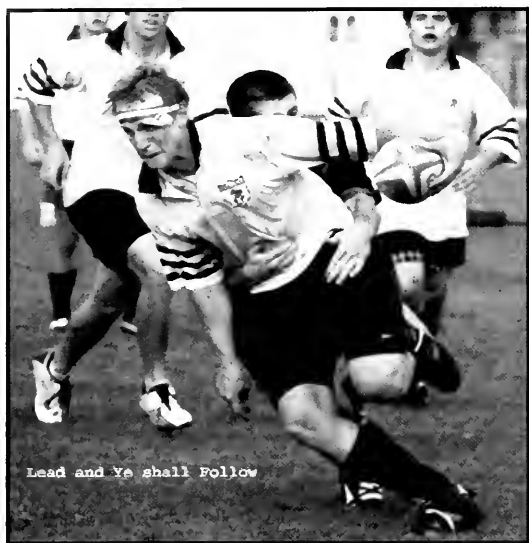

Wolfing finished her outstanding career as the school's all-time leader in digs with 1,557. She also finished second all-time in kills (1,490) and games played (471).

Lux finished as the program's leader in career games played (479) and is third in digs (1,494).

When it was time forwards to come in, the Generals were well represented. Gladysz was named First Team All-ODAC, First Team All-Region and Third Team All-American.

Wolfing also earned First Team All-ODAC and First Team All-Region accolades, and was an Honorable Mention All-America selection. Additionally, she was named the ODAC Volleyball Scholar-Athlete of the Year for the second straight season, and was named to the CoSIDA/ESPN The Magazine Third Team Academic All-America squad. She was also featured in Sports Illustrated's Faces in the Crowd during the season.

Gaillard was the final First Team All-ODAC selection. She was also placed on the Honorable Mention All-Region squad.

What is for sure is that hard work and compromise will be a key element."

The 2004-2005 Screaming Minks

Right: Three words... Crouch, touch, engage

Rugby

By Arthur Fang

The young W&L Rugby Football Club grinded through a tough transitional period after graduating nine starters in the wake of last year's hugely successful campaign. With a significant loss in size and experience, the 2004/2005 season was further marred by an injury-riddled squad. Many first team selections had spent considerable time nursing injuries throughout the season.

Thus, the inexperienced Screaming Minks relied heavily on coach Thomas Lovell's insightful guidance and other senior players' leadership. When healthy enough to play, President Rory Dowling and George Craft proved to be instrumental in mentoring this freshmen-laden line-up. Even though the Minks only churned out a disappointing 3-4 record, there is no reason to be worried. Many first year players filled in remarkably well, while older players showed their worth in light of a heightened competition.

The performance of the class of 05' was especially commendable. In the forward pack W&L saw the inspirational play of Craft leading the forwards to fight for every metre and bleed

"It's been an amazing four years with the Minks Rugby Club. I've seen the club at its lowest point and at its highest.

Though the success of this year's team did not reach last year's trip to the Ed Lee Tournament, the young team gained valuable experience for the coming years. The young leadership shown throughout the year will surely bring success during the next few seasons. Thanks to all the players, parents, fans, and especially Coach Tom Lovell who have supported the Minks tradition."

-Rory Dowling '05

out every tackle. Besides Craft, Mike Whitecar and Chad Lewis assumed the colossal task of shouldering the Minks' scrummaging and line-outs.

Behind the forwards, where feminine 'ruggers' roamed, Dowling and Mark Woodward put up laudable performances despite playing along inexperienced newcomers on the backline. In addition, Mike Diverio and Matt Kaufmann played admirably as they were often forced to play out of position. Finally, Will Powell rounded out his rugby career with an electrifying try against the Law school. And he still owes us a Zulu.

Diversity was another highlight for the 2004/2005 season. The rugby team was joined by a few global nomads: Chris Dadak (first generation Polish American), I myself (Canadian born and raised in Hong Kong), Buck Fletcher (Bermudian expatriate), Joa Roux (South African expatriate) and Tino Tovo (Argentinian). Nonetheless, I feel compelled to add that racial diversity is merely a euphemism for miscegenation or a PR master tool.

Last but not least, we must extend our utmost gratitude to our beloved coach Lovell 91'. Not only is he a celebrity on the rugby field, he is also famous for his party antics. A fratlord in every sense of the word, Lovell is the true legend, first among equals, man of the century, a proud father of two, yet a difficult 'baby' to all of us rugby players and a master strategist. His enthusiasm for the game rivals his unwillingness to admit his old age. That simply speaks the coach's love for rugby. During this challenging campaign coach beared with us through sometimes sloppy practices and too often sloppy website updates. The most we can do, besides hugging like sororities girls with tears in our eyes, is to thank coach here for spending valuable time to mentor us. Thank you.

The W&L Rugby Football Club welcomes our daughters.

The Washington and Lee wrestling team entered the 2004-05 season with modest expectations and a roster loaded with freshmen after returning only two wrestlers from last season's 0-9 team. The Generals went 5-4 to produce W&L's first winning season since the 2000-01 campaign, and had three wrestlers finish among the top four in their weight class at the 2005 Centennial Conference Championships.

The Generals finished eighth as a team at the conference championship, but freshmen Jesup Sataloff (Baltimore, Md.) and Anthony Boniello (Katonah, N.Y.), and sophomore Max Courtney (Jeffersonville, Pa.) proved that they belonged among the conference's elite. Sataloff lost his opening match in the Centennial Tourney, but went on to win his final three matches to place third in the 174-pound weight class. Boniello went 2-2 to place fourth in the 157-pound weight class while Courtney, one of the two returning wrestlers from last year's team, went 2-2 to finish fourth at 184 pounds.

What I liked most about this group of guys was their dedication and work ethic. Everyone on the team has such a passion for wrestling. Coach Franke has been instrumental in grooming this young team into a contender. We are returning 9 of 10 starters next year, and look to improve on our success this season."

The Washington and Lee riding team has been making significant strides in proving itself as an elite team in equestrian circles. The 2004-05 year was one in which the Generals proved that they belong.

W&L was consistently ranked in the Top 3 in the region and finished second at the ODAC meet.

Along the way, several individuals proved themselves to be not only among the best riders in the region, but in the nation.

W&L featured depth in every event highlighted by the fact that seven different riders took first place in their event at an invitational during the course of the year. Those riders were senior Anne Jacobson (Pottstown, Pa.), juniors Caitlin Lane (Leesburg, Va.), Katie Goodrich (Indianapolis, Ind.), Sarah Murray (Spring, Texas) and Natalia Maxwell (Plano, Texas), sophomore Brittany Bansak (Redding, Conn.) and freshman Karen Klein (Richmond, Va.) and Alice Shih (Austin, Texas).

Three riders, Lane, Maxwell and Bansak, qualified for the Intercollegiate Horse Show Association (IHSA) zone competition, with Lane winning both the open fences and open flat events. Maxwell finished second in the novice flat to join Lane as qualifiers for the IHSA National Championships on May 5-8 in Sunbury, Ohio.

At the IHSA meet, Lane completed the season by finishing third in the open fences and fifth in the open flat. Maxwell, competing at nationals for the first time, placed sixth in the novice flat.

At the ODAC Championships held at Hollins University on April 22, the Generals came as close as they ever have to claiming the conference crown. W&L finished second out of the five teams and was just two points behind team champion, Randolph-Macon Woman's College. The Generals placed first overall in the open fences and open flat events and were led by First Team All-ODAC selections Lane and Goodrich.

With all but two riders returning to the fold next season, the Generals are certain to again contend for the ODAC title in 2005-06.

For the first time in three seasons, the Washington and Lee women's basketball team had a full complement of players in the preseason and was at full strength entering the regular season.

The Generals used their depth and style to tie the school record with 13 victories in a season and advance to the ODAC Tournament for the second straight season.

Two Generals were named to the All-ODAC team. Sophomore center Jessica Hunsinger (Mayer, Ariz.) earned second team honors, while Feve was an honorable mention pick.

Senior guard Bethany Dannelly (Raleigh, N.C.) finished her final season with averages of 6.0 points, a team-high 5.2 assists, 3.1 rebounds, and a team-best 2.7 steals per game. She also led the team in free throw shooting (.818, 63-77) and finished her career as the program's all-time leader in assists (459) and steals (198).

The 2004-05 men's basketball season would challenge a young, but talented team. The General's roster included just one senior and two juniors. Freshmen constituted nearly half the team (46.6 percent), while sophomores made up the remaining 33.3 percent.

The popular saying is that things get worse before they get better, and W&L experienced those emotions throughout the 2-23 season.

The season was not without individual success, however, as seniors and freshmen alike reached milestones. Mike Stuart (Warrenton, Va.) nailed 28 three-pointers to finish his career with 129 made three-pointers, the third-highest total in school history. Additionally, Halkitis hit 44 three-pointers to raise his two-year total to 99 made three's, a number which ranks eighth all-time.

Freshman guard John Mumper (Richmond, Va.) tallied a career-high 20 points at Bridgewater, Kusimo notched a career-high 18 points at EMU and freshman forward Colton Braud (Houston, Texas) posted a career-high 11 points at Emory & Henry.

Every sturdy house is built with a solid foundation and the 2004-05 season, regardless of the outcome, was about doing just that.

Swimming

Both the Washington and Lee men's and women's swimming teams entered their 2004-05 seasons with a bulls eye on their back. Last season, the women won their 11th consecutive ODAC Championship, while the men went a perfect 7-0 and captured the Bluegrass Mountain Conference Championship. Would either team fold under the glaring spotlight that they put upon themselves with their recent dominance?

The answer was a resounding "NO". The women's team had an unblemished record of 5-0 against ODAC competition during the regular season, before claiming their 12th consecutive ODAC Championship. The men's team easily defended their Bluegrass Mountain Conference Championship as well.

The women took home the ODAC team title with 596 points and were followed by Randolph-Macon (475), Randolph-Macon Woman's College (249.50), Sweet Briar (230), Hollins (213), and Guilford (118.50).

The W&L women were in top form throughout the ODAC/

Atlantic States Championship and were rewarded by having seven swimmers named to the All-ODAC team. The Generals were led by junior Kristine Holda (Strongsville, Ohio), who won three individual events and a relay.

The men brought the BMC title back to Lexington for the second straight year by amassing 800 points, which was 306.50 more than second place Transylvania (493.50). Fairmont State was third with 489.50 and was followed by West Virginia Wesleyan (424), Salem International (390), Savannah College of Art & Design (300), Wheeling Jesuit (261), and Asbury College (73).

The Generals placed 11 swimmers on the All-BMC team, 9 earning first team honors and 2 swimmers earning honorable mention accolades. Moreover, Ginder and Colby were both chosen to compete at the NCAA championships. For the second year in a row, Ginder earned All-America accolades in the 100-yd freestyle.

The Washington and Lee men's tennis team has been nothing if it hasn't been consistent.

The Generals have produced at least 13 wins in each of the last three seasons and advanced to the NCAA Tournament Second Round for five straight seasons. The Generals 2005 campaign wound up carrying on the tradition, but it had quite a rocky beginning.

W&L started the season 1-4 overall but then bounced back in the final day of the indoor nationals to down eighth-ranked Mary Washington, 5-2. The win sparked a winning streak that would see W&L win each of its next 13 matches over the next two months. Along the way, W&L claimed its 10th straight ODAC Championship.

The Generals were still riding high as they entered the NCAA Tournament. W&L opened the tournament with a 4-1 win over Carnegie Mellon, but was then faced with meeting a familiar foe in the second round. Second-ranked Emory University proved too much for the Generals to handle as the season ended with a 4-0 loss to the Eagles.

Though the 2005 season had its ups and downs, W&L accomplished much during the course of the year.

When interviewed during the pre-season, Washington and Lee Head Women's Tennis Coach Cinda Rankin stated that her team "has the skill and potential to be one of the best teams ever at Washington and Lee." This was a lofty statement based upon the history of the program, but her predictions were a spot on match as the Generals breezed through much of the season and entered the final match of the season with a 22-0 record. That final match just happened to be the NCAA Division III Championship for the second time in the last three seasons.

At the ODAC Tournament, W&L won all six singles and all three doubles flights to capture its 14th ODAC title in the last 15 years.

The Generals entered the NCAA Tournament as the top seed and got off to a flying start with 5-0 wins over 25th-ranked Swarthmore and 15th-ranked Carnegie Mellon in the first two rounds. W&L then defeated eighth-ranked Denison and Middlebury, 5-3, in the NCAA semifinals before losing in the finals to Emory.

Hagerman, who was named the ITA National Senior Player of the Year, ended her season as the NCAA singles champion.

Baseball

With the graduation of its top four pitchers and all-time RBI leader, how would the Washington and Lee baseball team fare during the 2005 campaign? That question was answered early on in the season as the Generals bolted out of the gate with a 16-2 record, including a 14-game winning streak, among the longest in school history.

W&L's fast start earned it a No. 29 national ranking in the Division III Poll for the first time in school history.

The Generals ended with a 27-13 record and was rewarded for their fine season by having four players named to the All-ODAC team. Miller and Wesley earned first team honors, while McConnell and senior catcher Zach Bausch were selected to the second team.

Miller set a school-record with 161 at-bats, while McConnell set single-season records for hits (67), doubles (24), RBI (56), and total bases (114). Bausch concluded his stellar career ranked among the Top-10 in school history in six categories.

The team really bonded this year which allowed for our success and to continue the winning ways of Generals baseball. From houses on out up street, a new team constitution. Senior-Jammer dinners (congrats Garland) to huddles on the mound (yes Johnson Brownlowe we really over achieved). Although mumps threatened cancellation of the end of our season, T-Mac 'the mumb', Cupcake and Jordan 'tackling team' Wesley all had great years. Thanks to Stuck, Brooke-st, Sigler and TJ as well as Charlie, Marlene and Barry. Oh and of course all year we had icing on the cake.

Golf

The 2005 Washington and Lee golf team proved that you don't need to have experience to compete with the nation's elite. The Generals roster featured just two upperclassmen and only one senior. Despite the lack of experience, the Generals claimed the Virginia Division III title and finished second at the ODAC Championships where they knocked off eventual national champion Guilford.

W&L finished third of 12 teams at the Randolph-Macon Ted Keller Invitational. The Generals then completed a tremendous fall season by claiming the team title at the McDaniel Ocean City Classic (297-302--599).

With a successful fall campaign under their belts, the Generals felt they could compete with Guilford for the ODAC Championship in late April. After opening the spring season with a disappointing eighth place finish (324-315--639) at the Lenoir-Rhyne Invitational, W&L again found its footing and produced a solid fifth place finish (24 teams) at the Golden Isle Invitational. The Generals' score of 302-294-303--899 bested that of several Top 20 teams and was just off the pace set by Division III powers Greensboro and Methodist.

The Generals made a charge for the ODAC title but finished just four strokes behind Randolph-Macon for the title. James led the way with a second place finish (77-78--155) and earned ODAC All-Tournament and First Team All-ODAC honors. With young talented players like James and Spivey returning, the Generals will assuredly be primed for a run at the ODAC title and an NCAA Championship berth next spring.

"We started the season losing only one starting player, and had high hopes with three new freshman prospects. Right off the bat, the freshmen performed well, with Nathaniel James earning several top-10 finishes in the fall season. As a team, we won two events in the fall, making it one of our most successful fall seasons in recent history. Heading into the spring ranked #12 nationally, we played well on all tournaments except the Emory Invitational. Highlights included Steven Spivey's 3rd place finish at the Ogelthorpe Invitational as well as a team victory at the Buck Leslie, our home tournament. Losing only one senior, Ged Johnson, the team looks to continue improving, and hopefully reach the National Tournament, a very realistic goal."

Score Today

The 2005 W&L men's lacrosse season was a tale of two seasons. There was the season in which W&L was ranked 7-1 then there was the second season in which the Generals finished the campaign 2-4 and fell out of the Top 20 for the first time since 1990.

The Generals started the season explosively with wins over a pair of Top 10 teams in Washington College (7-6) and Gettysburg (9-8). This was the first year in several that men swept all three of their Centennial Conference rivals. As the season progressed, W&L fought its way to a second seed for the ODAC Tournament, but the Generals couldn't hold off a Lynchburg squad (10-6) that would go on to win the ODAC title.

Senior attackman Gavin Molinelli (Northport, N.Y.) was named Honorable Mento in All-American and capped a fine career by leading the Generals in scoring for the third straight season. Senior defenseman Eric Koch (Boonton Township, N.J.) also capped a stellar career by being named First Team All-ODAC.

The seven seniors on the 2005

Washington and Lee women's lacrosse team have accrued many accomplishments during their careers with the Generals. In each of the past two seasons, they helped W&L tie the school-record for victories in a season with 15, won back-to-back ODAC Championships, and made two appearances in the NCAA Tournament.

In their final campaign, these seven players aided the 13th-ranked Generals to a first in the 17-history of the program as they advanced to the NCAA Tournament Quarterfinals with an 11-9 win over fourth-ranked Amherst in the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

In the ODAC Tournament, W&L defeated Sweet Briar, 8-3 in the semifinals before posting a 6-5 comeback win over Randolph-Macon in the ODAC Championship Game. The Generals received a first round bye in the NCAA Tournament before making program history with their victory over Amherst.

W&L had seven players named to the All-ODAC team and Hawthorn was again named Coach of the Year.

Track

The Washington and Lee men's and women's track programs had a record-breaking indoor season and they carried that momentum into the outdoor season where they set eight school records and had four All-ODAC selections.

W&L opened the season at the Washington and Lee Invitational where both teams placed fifth out of nine teams. The men were led by senior Nathan Johnson, who was named the Athlete of the Meet after winning both the 800 meters and 1500 meters. Sophomore Andrew Fischer won the javelin with a throw of 145'8", while Walker Duncan placed third in the hammer throw with a school-record toss of 136'.

In the women's meet, senior Meredith Walker won the long jump with a leap of 16'2 1/2", while senior Emily Barker was second in the javelin (99'7") and third in the shot put (33'7 1/2").

The Generals returned to action at the Roanoke Invitational where they set three school records, including two by freshman Elizabeth Brandler. She won the triple jump with a school-record jump of 34'4 3/4" and placed second in the pole vault by clearing a school-record and NCAA qualifying height of 11'3". Sophomore Sara Behmerwohld joined Brandler in the record books by winning the 400-meter hurdles in a school-record time of 1:08.27.

W&L continued its season at the University of Mary Washington Battleground Relays, where two more school records were established. In the men's race, seniors Norman Senior, Steve Chambers, junior Andrew Johnso, and Nathan Johnson won the race in a school-record time of 10:37.98. Nathan Johnson also won the 3000 meters in a time of 8:55.44.

In the women's DMR, the quartet of Lindsay Erickson, Kim Gunst, Mary Christopher, and Blair Haws won the race in a school-record time of 12:58.81. Erickson also won the 3000 meters.

At the Duke Invitational the men were once again led by Nathan Johnson, who finished first among Division III athletes and was seventh overall in the 3000 meter steeplechase in a school-record and NCAA qualifying time of 9:19.21. Senior Chris Walker placed third among Division III competitors in the hammer throw. In the women's meet, Behmerwohld was first among Division III competitors and sixth overall in the 100-meter hurdles in a time of 16.56, while Christopher was third among Division III athletes in the 1500 meters.

At the Elon Invitational, the Generals had six first place finishes and 31 Top-5 finishes. In the men's meet, Fischer won the javelin and Nathan Johnson was second in the 800 meters. In the women's meet, Christopher won the 800 meters, while Haws was first among Div. III athletes and second overall in the 1500 meters (5:09.39). Barker was first among Div. III athletes in both the javelin (92'11 1/2") and shot put (34'7"), while Brandler placed first among Div. III athletes in the triple jump (34'4 1/4").

At the ODAC Championships, the Generals set their eighth record of the season and had three athletes named to the All-ODAC team. The men's team tied for fourth out of six teams, while the women placed fifth out of six teams. Nathan Johnson, who was named the Male Athlete of the Meet and the ODAC Scholar-Athlete of the Year, earned All-ODAC honors by winning both the 1500 (4:04.20) and 5000 (15:47.60) meter events. Chambers placed third in the 5000 meters (16:08.80), while freshman Alex Mahoney (New Trier, Ill.) was fourth in a time of 16:11.00.

In the women's meet, Erickson earned All-ODAC accolades after winning the 5000 meters with a meet and stadium record time of 18:33.50. Barker also earned All-ODAC honors with a second place finish in the shot put (10.75 meters). The 4x100 meter relay team of sophomore Huntley Rodes (Nashville, Tenn.), Behmerwohld, Gunst, and Walker finished third in a school-record time of 51.54.

Pledge. Orientation Week parties where you have no idea what fraternity owns the house you're in or how you actually got to that house.

Pledge. Fall term freshmen year where you go to houses you might never go to again, or at least until you're a senior and stop caring.

Pledge. Finding your favorite few houses.

Pledge. Rush Dinners.

Pledge. "Hard sell" conversations.

Pledge. Upperclassmen women can't pass the tap to freshmen women.

Pledge. Formal rush week.

Pledge. Skits, crafts, and songs.

Pledge. Tear Night and the inevitable barrage of stories at brunch the next morning.

Pledge. Eight weeks of very little sleep that you'll eventually come to appreciate.

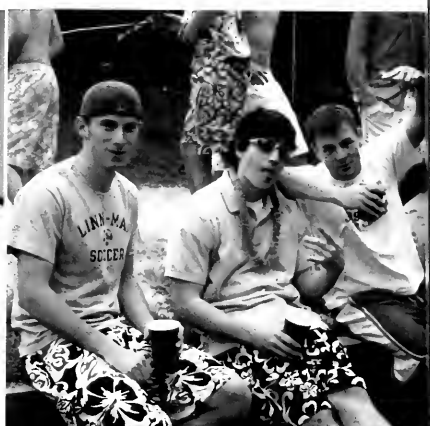

Pledge. Initiation.

Legacy. Forming bonds with the best friends you'll have in college while carrying on the traditions of Greek life at Washington and Lee.

Greek Life 2004-2005

Greek Life 2004-2005 was much quieter than Greek Life 2003-2004. All thirteen remaining fraternities and five sororities survived the year, even after the Board of Trustees announced they would be enforcing the Alcohol Policy. Widely seen as a crack down, wristbands made an appearance at parties and many formal weekends saw their cocktail parties moved off campus. The greek scene actually grew during this academic year, as it welcomed Phi Beta Sigma and Delta Sigma Theta, a historically black fraternity and sorority, on to campus. Also, the sororities are currently voting on a sixth sorority to join Panhellenic Council next year.

Once we started the damn thing, it was all about social domination. Dr. Love finally learned a 4/5 exercise, cutting the last strings on the puppet, but as he didn't call Dibbs, he quickly attached his strings to Re-run's KAPPA pledgesister.

The Duuues got paid, will graduate, and still doesn't need a hook on this B. The brown kid lived long and prospered under the Vulcan motto while TNK lost the Dirty Sanchez. After nearly disappearing in a fog of Diet Coke, Parliaments, and nappy pills, the little mermaid settled for seconds again, and now even has a second girlfriend.

The tripping monkeys got their asses beat on the front lawn at Margaritaville, while the elf had a unforgettable time at Christmas weekend....which he doesn't remember. The Frat Lord went up to take a shower, and ended up pulling a Haugen on a Haugen. The last samurai was a no show this year, but Napoleon's ninja was reportedly spotted....once.

The All American Uberness rocked out with his cock out within sight of the chocolate gravy train. Speaking of chocolate, crotch rot found the ultimate kinkiness, and its name is Nutella. Chewcocca almost threw a hat trick, but wouldn't sac up with a party girl.

Formal rush brought us nine great guys with the likes of Pole-nap, the Aquibler Elf, and Super Dork with the help of laws which features Beirut parties and a spacious basement. Oh yeah, and we got an underground railroad for Spring Term.

Rolling into winter term brought the lodge wondrous things such as the Leprechaun losing his pot of gold and the reemergence of I F!&#*n Suck to replace the Beer Bitch. Cuddles lost his coffee mate, but finally earned it and found a cherry picker along with DCL (although his turned out to be a reindeer). Crint Crint tried to settle down with a crush, but instead just found himself ordering Domino's and rediscovering his black soul (8 pledge sisters among others). They deliver in thirty minutes or less and the food is decent too.

Feb break featured Papa Guinea's green skis, with Sweetness Burking out with...well....you know. F%^k Ass took a break from the Lodge to hang in the Mirage and do some laundry.....Seneca and a loaded-----only in WV.

Proving once more what it means to do it for the story, the Short Bus took Drunky's ex to school, but failed to check her ID, proving yet again that he should be allowed to teach high school.

The war between the Aryans and Asians will be settled at FD, but the marshal already set fire to the pool table. The Lodge bids a fond farewell to Duuues, The Pillsbury YoBoy, Fashion, Brown kid, The Swimmer's Body, Leprechaun and The Sweetness, but The New Hotness will be back to do the damn thing all over again in the fall.

Presidents Audrey Walker '05 and Hayley Skinner '06 lead the way in service, scholarship, activities, athletics, excitement and entertainment! Our amazing social chairs kept us busy with, Endless Summer, Margaritaville, Remember the 80's, Harleys & Hunnies, Preps & Punks, Boogie Nights, Country Club, Italian Wedding, Heaven & Hell, Persephone's Gala, Pledge Formal, White Carnation and our annual Rave! Chi-O's may party hard on the weekends but during the week it's strictly business. We're proud to have girls in Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Eta Sigma and Omicron Delta Kappa as well as members of the Trident, Ring-Tum Phi, InGeneral, and Ariel staff. Chi-O's demonstrate their other talents through their involvement in Chamber Singers, University Chorus, General Admission, University Wind Ensemble, W&L dance, cheerleading, basketball, track, swimming, soccer, lacrosse, the riding team, and just about every other campus organization. We were truly honored by Marie Trimble's service as president of the Executive Committee and Justine Sessions' hard work with the SFHB. Even with all their involvement on campus Chi-O's were never too busy to lend a helping hand through their involvement with Alpha Phi Omega, Habitat for Humanity, Nabors Service League, Relay for Life and our national philanthropy, Make a Wish. On Bid Night we welcomed 39 of the cutest Chi Omegas ever; we were thrilled that they chose to join our tradition of excellence. We sent our seniors off in style at our annual Senior Barbeque; they will be greatly missed. We wish them the best of luck and look forward to hearing of their successes in the future. And, as always, this year was MDF!

Kappa Alpha Theta

Zeta Iota

Established 1989

The Zeta Iota Chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta had another fabulous year. President Emily Wolfir completed her term, and handed the gavel down to new president, Elizabeth Eisenbrandt. The leadership spreads beyond just the sorority, with leaders all over campus. Theta boasts several team captains, members of both the SJC and EC, along with several heads of philanthropy events (i.e. the Literacy Campaign).

The fall was filled with fun and philanthropy as the Theta's co-sponsored a 5k run with Sigma Chi and a pancake breakfast with Phi Psi to sponsor their national philanthropy CASA (Court Appointed Special Advocates). Beyond volunteerism, the girls enjoyed themselves at Twin Stars, Super Hero Mixer, and Red Neck Weekend.

Theta started the winter semester off by adding 39 new members from the freshman class. The new members add even more talent and pizzazz to the membership. It's a lucky thing that the freshman class brings so many great girls, as Theta will say goodbye to the fabulous class of '05. This graduating class has given so much to both the sorority and the school and will be missed tremendously.

Theta members: '05- Martha Allgood, Elizabeth Amoni, Meredith Bailey, Courtney Brent, Kriste Brown, Michelle Chastain, Elizabeth Clarke, Quintina Conway, Kristin Crawford, Bethany Dannell, Elizabeth Falco, Alexis Fernandez, Anastasia Fisher, Charlotte Grumley, Blake Hastings, Virginia Helms, Natalya Hoobchaak, Margaret Hope, Anne Idsal, Amanda Jones, Jennifer Lux, Elizabeth Meehan, Rebecca Merritt, Kitt Murphy, Adrienne Norwood, Cristin Nunez, Mary Plummer, Eri Rathbone, Anne Rochfort, Alexandra Schaerrer, Julianne Shelley, Leigh Anna Thomure, Emily Wolfing, Kelley Zagol; '06-Virginia Mae Baird, Margaret Batten, Jane Beall, Nazo Burgy, Anne Callison, Mary Flynn Detlefs, Elizabeth Eisenbrandt, Louisa Feve, Susan Gaillard, Elise Gelinas, Kerry Gibli, Taylor Gibson, Christine Gladysz, Jessica Good, Katherine Goodrich, Christina Griesemer, Courtney Harrison, Meredith Hibbard, Mary Holloway, Emilee Hopkins, Katharine Lester, Jessica Lloyd, Lisa Mabry, Amaya Moure, Ashleigh Overly, Lauren Peters, Patricia Roberts, Amanda Robinette, Amanda Strickler, Rachel Wallick, Kyle Wass, Emily White, Christina Zanotti; '07- Kimberly Babbitt, Sarah Bloom, Margaret Bruckmann, Natalie Day, Jamie Dorsey, Lane Earnest, Lauren Edmonson, Kelly Evans, Katie Green, Mary Harris, Rebecca Hatchett, Sarah Helms, Ashley Hurt, Julia Jackson, Christina Leaton, Lindsay Lecky, Rachael Levine, Mallory Lobisser, Avery Lovejoy, Emily McDowell, Margaret Megear, Sarah Otey, Casandra Pedroza, Kelly Price, Huntley Rodes, Emily Sberna, Karina Schless, Caroline Simonson, Lily Stone, Anne Tipton, Nicole Tsiknakis, Amy Volkmann, Abby Weichel, Anne Wiltshire, Virginia Wortham; '08- Kathryn Allen, Christine Bender, Elizabeth Brandle, Jessica Buckingham, Danielle Cardone, Martha Caulkins, Betsy Chaplin, Georgina Coolidge, Andre Deoudes, Diana Dozier, Katherine Dyt, Shaun Edwards, Bonnie Fay, Kathleen Garman, Georgi Gilroy, Allison Gockley, Samantha Hishmeh, Kendall Korte, Kristen Krouchick, Chonyang Lu, Katherine Michaels, Elizabeth Moore, Colette Moryan, Sara Mueller, Laura Nugent, Shana Oltman, Lauren Ottaway, Tara Rubenstein, Lauren Rudolph, Laura Secrest, Alice Shih, Megan Slosson, Sara Tilbor, Elliot Walker, Leah Weston, Elizabeth Williams, Emily Wolff

Kappa Delta

Zeta Tau

Established 1997

The sisters of the Zeta Tau chapter of Kappa delta had an amazing year under the leadership of past president Celia Landgren '05 and current president Brooke Taylor '06. Under the guidance of Bailey Hardin we had an outstanding recruitment and think our new pledge class is fabulous! Kappa Deltas could be seen all over campus this year. Lane Morgan and Margaret Elkins serve their classes on the Executive Committee. Ellie Hindsley, Trisha Williams, Stephanie Jordon and Allie Kelly work on the Fancy Dress committee. Beth Lidinsky served as the newly elected Public Relations Chair for Nabors Service League. Many thanks to all the KD's who devote so much time to the Panhellenic Committee. KDs could be found on the homecoming court (where we had the most nominees), the Freshman Orientation committee, the Nabors Service League, Dorm Counselor Staff, Peer Counselor Staff, RUE, University-Shenandoan Symphony orchestra, University Chorus, Jubilee, General Admission, the knitting club, the sailing club, the Calyx staff, and W&L dance. Our strong athletes compete on numerous sports teams including Cross Country, Track, Volleyball, Soccer, Tennis, Lacrosse, Riding and Swimming. KD's also found time to participate in numerous philanthropy events, including our Backyard Games and our dodgeball tournament. There is no doubt that the KD's had great social events, thanks to our social chairs, Brynne Archer and Alex Laymon. We rocked out all over the place, including Tacky Prom, Famous Lovers and even in Charlottesville! Of course, it would never be Home Sweet Kappa Delta without the hard work and support of Mama Sara, Pattie, Carolyn and Zola; thank you so much! This has been an awesome year and we can't wait to be back next fall. To all of our graduating seniors: congratulations and good luck! This chapter never would have been the same without you. We love you and will miss you!

Kappa Kappa Gamma

Zeta Tau

Established 1939

Members of the Zeta Tau chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma are involved in many different aspects of life at Washington and Lee. We have girls on the soccer, field hockey, sailing and many other sports teams. We also have girls involved in extra curricular activities such as the Trident and Phi staff, Habitat for Humanity, tour guides and other volunteer services. Kappas are seen all over campus helping out and are always busy! If they aren't studying, they can usually be seen hanging out at the house, always having fun! We would like to say thank you to Boo, Sue, Bonnie and Ms. G for taking care of all us. Congratulations seniors and good luck next year in the real world. We love you and will miss you all next year!

We, Douglas Allen, Frank Lee III, Ted Archer, Frank Lubsey III, Ryan Edge, Julian Ledford are the charter members of the Beta Beta Nu chapter of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity Inc. We have established the first chapter of a historically black fraternity or sorority in Washington and Lee's history. The seventh man on our line was our line brother, Trent Bosley, from James Madison University, who is a member of the Pi Nu chapter of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc.

Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc. was founded Jan. 9, 1914 on the campus of Howard University in Washington D.C. The motto of the frat. is: culture for service and service for humanity. The principles of the frat. are: brotherhood, scholarship, and service.

We are constitutionally bound to Zeta Phi Beta Sorority Inc., our sister sorority. We are the only constitutionally bound frat. and soror. out of the nine historically black frats and sorors. We are pictured with L'Shauntee Robertson, a member of the Epsilon chapter (Morris Brown College in Atlanta) of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority Inc. and a current 3rd year law student at Washington and Lee University law school, and Keith Cook, our Dean through the pledge process.

Another year has passed and Virginia Beta bids farewell to its most illustrious seniors. From the iron-fisted leadership of Kiwi, to the ever lasting presence of sixth year god, David "Victory Lap" Haase, the seniors will be sorely missed. As we look back upon the '04-'05 school year we reflect on friends made, weight gained, and morals eroded. We reveled in the debauchery of Caveman, the style of Homecoming weekend, the little sisters of our ex-girlfriends, the brutality of Cockfights, and the pleasurable ecstasy of Phi Psi Fridays and came out the better for it. Perhaps the end of the year can best be summed up in the words of the great Phi Psi, Notorious BIG: "If you don't know, now you know!"

By Bob Dylan

May God bless and keep you always
May your wishes all come true
May you always do for others
And let others do for you
May you build a ladder to the stars
And climb on every rung
May you stay forever young
May you stay forever young.

May you grow up to be righteous
May you grow up to be true
May you always know the truth
And see the lights surrounding you
May you always be courageous
Stand upright and be strong
May you stay forever young
Forever young, forever young
May you stay forever young.

May your hands always be busy
May your feet always be swift
May you have a strong foundation
When the winds of changes shift
May your heart always be joyful
And may your song always be sung
May you stay forever young
Forever young, forever young
May you stay forever young.

The Journey

One day you finally knew what you had to do, and began,
though the voices around you kept shouting their bad advice-
though the whole house
began to tremble
and you felt the old tug at your ankles.
"Mend my life!"
each voice cried.

But you didn't stop.
You knew what you had to do,
though the wind pried
with its stiff fingers
at the very foundations,
though their melancholy
was terrible.

It was already late
enough, and a wild night,
and the road full of fallen branches and stones.

But little by little,
as you left their voices behind,
the stars began to burn
through the sheets of clouds, and there was a new voice
which you slowly
recognized as your own
that kept you company
as you strode deeper and deeper into the world,
determined to do
the only thing you could do determined to save the only life you could save

Success

To laugh often and much; to win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children; to earn the appreciation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends; to appreciate beauty, to find the best in others; to leave the world a bit better whether by a healthy child, a garden patch or a redeemed social condition; to know even one life has breathed easier because you lived, this is to have succeeded.

If

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you;
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or, being lied about, don't deal in lies.
Or, being hated don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise;

If you can dream - and not make dreams your master;
If you can think and not make thoughts your aim,
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat those two imposters just the same;
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,
And stoop and build 'em up with worn-out tools;

If you can make one heap of all your winnings,
And risk it on one turn of pitch and toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginnings,
And never breath a word about your loss;
If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew,
To serve your turn long after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you
Except the Will which says to then "Hold On!"

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with kings - nor lose the common touch,
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
If all men count with you, but none too much:
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run
Yours is the earth and everything that's in it,
And - which is more - you'll be a Man, my Son!

Jeremiah,
 You have always been a blessing and a joy to us. We thank God for you. We are also thankful for the great experiences you have had at W&L and for the people who have been a part of your life at your home away from home. It seems the years have gone too quickly, and the parting comes too suddenly,
 but to everything there is a season and a time to every purpose. You will carry with you so many good memories of your college years, and so will we. We are so proud of you for what you have accomplished, but most of all for the person you are, and we are excited about your future. As you move on to the next phase of your life, continue to fight the good fight, keep the faith, and run the race.
 We know you will, and that you will fulfill the purpose to which God calls you.

Love you forever,

Justine,

Kudos on condensing so much into your four years at W&L. Just the things you've shared with us seem like a full time job: supporting Cam long-distance freshman and senior years, coaching your first place soccer team, pledging Kappa, leading a GCF Bible study group, getting engaged, helping Cam submit his law school applications, prepping for the Tuscaloosa job market, planning a not-so-simple wedding, and learning to go to Walmart and Wendy's on your own. Exhausting.

Oh and congratulations on earning your diploma, too!!!

Friends,

Oh my. I'm graduating. As I sit writing this, the book is nearly done and I have four days left to be an official Washington and Lee student. My last responsibility to W&L will be to finish the yearbook. How appropriate, right? This book has been a labor of love. I hope you enjoy the 2005 Calyx, may it forever become part of your legacy. It surely has become part of mine. I hope you look back on it often and that it brings a smile to your face.

The book could not have been accomplished without the help of so many wonderful and amazing people. To Noble and Cath- editors, photographers, staff mem- candid pictures, thank you so very as it is mine. Thank you for your putting up with my last minute and my ceaseless emails. You book. I hope you enjoyed it.

I often wonder if with as well as I do you two. I don't know if it's Fulbright Scholar, I love you and I will forever miss you and our roomie pow-wows. Kittredge, Bones, and Fevel, thanks for being Penthouse Ladies with us. You guys rock, I adore each and every one of you!

Coach Jan Hathorn once asked me that, when coming to college, if I ever would have predicted I'd become a lax groupie. Never, I said, but I'm glad I did. The senior class of the men's lacrosse team, I can't say enough about you. The season had its up and its downs, but you all really held together as a class. Thank you for allowing me to be a part of that class. Thank you for letting me join the lacrosse "family". I will miss you, and many of your

The 2005 Calyx, volume CVIII, was produced by the student members of the Calyx Staff at Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Virginia. Created using Adobe InDesign CS on a Dell Optiplex PC, it was printed by Josten's Publishing at their Winston-Salem, North Carolina, plant. A total of 312 pages, 54 of which are full process color, the book contains approximately 3000 photos, both print and digital. Seventeen hundred copies of the book were produced. Executive Editor Larsen designed the theme, "Legacy," over the summer of 2004. It is a combined one word theme with a geometric "circle-line" design. Executive Editor Larsen designed the cover during the fall of 2004. It is a custom screen made of material 533 Royal Blue. The cover is embossed with a custom made diecut of the Washington and Lee University Trident. The diecut was designed and produced especially for the 2005 Calyx by Jostens Publishing. Cover ink is 329 Silver; end-sheets are 275 Slate printed with a custom design by Executive Editor Larsen in standard black ink. Body and caption font is Palantino; headline font is AYToliveOil. Portrait photos were taken by Vantine Images. Layouts were submitted to the Winston-Salem plant by CD. The Calyx Staff would like to thank Mrs. Carol Calkins for her invaluable help this year and for so many years in the past. Without her, this book simply would not exist. Mrs. Calkins, enjoy your retirement. We will sorely miss you. We would also like to thank our Josten's Representative Jay Hollis. Jay, your helpful attitude makes you a pleasure to work with. Thanks for putting up with our constant questions and delays. Executive Editor Larsen would like to thank all the staff for their consistent hard work, this book is a reflection of all your efforts. Enjoy it! Noble, Meg, and Catherine, thanks for all your help this year. Catherine, you will rock next year! Good luck!
